

Have you ever felt vulnerable at work?

In honor of National Safety Month, Drexel University Online cordially invites you to join us for our upcoming webinar to learn how you can empower yourself to assess risk, intervene and prevent violence:

“Benefit of Vulnerability and Risk Assessment in a Healthcare Setting.”

Presented by Dr. Paul Clements

Tuesday, June 10, 2014
Noon - 1pm (EST)

Register at Drexel.com/Risk

Dr. Paul Clements is a nationally renowned authority in forensic health care. Drexel University Online is proud to have Dr. Clements as our Associate Clinical Professor of our Certificate in Forensic Trends and Issues in Contemporary Health. This course is designed to provide professionals with tools and strategies to deal with violent incidents and sexual assault.

Graduates of the program will learn tools to:

- Prevent and assess violence in their own workplace
- Assess and communicate with suspected victims and offenders
- Care for victims following trauma
- Enhance the safety of their workplace
- Combine facets of psychology, health care, and the justice system
- Learn more at Drexel.com